In March of 2022, Eversource submitted a proposal to the Energy Facilities Siting Board (EFSB) for a system reliability project to construct a new underground substation in Kendall Square along with five new underground duct banks housing new electric transmission lines, called the Greater Cambridge Energy Program (GCEP). As part of the process, Eversource hosted public information sessions about the project and its goals. Currently, the EFSB process is underway and hearings are scheduled for the coming months.

This update meeting, co-hosted by Eversource and the City of Cambridge, is to provide a status on the regulatory review process, route selection, and to further discuss Eversource's commitment to not develop an electrical substation at 135 Fulkerson Street. City representatives will be available to provide updates on the anticipated public process as the future use of the Fulkerson parcel is considered.

We hope you are able to join us for this important update.
